"On the threshold of a dream," for the members of the administration, would mean that each was working on the last item of a long list of activities that "ought to be done" by the end of the day. However, their attention to this list is interrupted by an untold number of off-the-desk activities.

After working all summer on transcripts and schedules, they find that there are shiftings among students and teachers that necessitate more changes. Orientation days are filled with book, locker, and schedule difficulties. Programs, problems, and puzzled people require interviews; test schedules have to be "unmazed." Then, when things begin to run smoothly, the incoming freshmen come in for open house; a few weeks later they return for an entrance exam; a short while later they come in for counselling and registration. After the next year's seniors, juniors, and sophomores take their turns at registering, the scheduling starts all over again.

Such occupations keep sister mary antonette and sister mary joseph busy; sister mary john, in the meantime, mimeographs all administration materials and keeps the school accounts. Each of them has the kind of job that allows little free time, but students can find them in their respective offices when they need them.

miss hazelle bergstrom

"It is important for students to realize their advantages at present," feels mr. tom o/hara, guidance director at marian, "so that they may be more responsible and aware now and in the future." He concludes that the objective of the guidance department is to assist the student in realizing and taking advantage of his opportunities, in becoming more aware of his potential growth and his capacity for christian fulfillment.

One thing that makes for greater efficiency and comfort in the guidance offices is the new location in the fine arts center with its "cool" furnishings. A more important asset to the department is the presence of miss hazelle bergstrom, whose earnest effort to guide and whose genuine interest in the students and their futures assure the program of its success.

To serve cheerfully, to work diligently, to be on hand when there is a need are the ideals that the students see evident in marian's helpers — the clerks, the cafeteria crew, the maintenance men. Their jobs are many and varied but their motto is the same. Mrs. francis keeler and mrs. jane mc/tigue are the very busy assistants in the outer office who make sense out of the attendance reports, make out the absentee list, answer the telephone, and keep the records straight. The cooks who keep marian students on their feet until 3:05 arrive on time to breakfast the early risers and then they begin to prepare the great variety of food that necessarily must be ready for "the gang" by 11:35. By mid-afternoon the kitchens are spic and span and the eight of them are ready to go to their respective homes to prepare the evening meal for their families. Then there are the men — and they are the ones who clean and shine the school despite the 1500 obstacles they meet in the corridors, cafeteria, and classrooms. Mathematically office, cafeteria, and school add up to work; at marian their sum total is service!

During "open house" (opposite page, middle left) that followed the ceremony sister mary joseph discusses equipment with visitor, sister mary gretchen, and (opposite page, middle right) sister mary wilma cordially invites sister mary lenore into the new arts center.

Listening attentively (opposite page, bottom) to the madrigals are dennis coatar, brother pius, father raymond nugent, john cardinal cody, father richard hills, and sister m. antonette.

Assisted by father raymond nugent (top) in the blessing of the new center, john cardinal cody concludes with the blessing of croarkin hall.

In her own name (middle left) and in the name of all springfield dominicans, mother mary jeremiah extends a warm welcome to the guests.

A reception in the gym (middle right) after the program affords the guests an opportunity to meet the cardinal, to renew old acquaintances, or to make new ones.

The central core of students' learning experience is the marian library under the guidance of sister agnes christine, assisted by mrs. myrtle johnson. It is here that the inspirational spark of wonderful dreams ignites and kindles imaginations to speculate on what the future may hold. There are books here for everyone, from research books for the chemist attempting his first term paper to spellbinding mysteries for the student reading for sheer pleasure. These books may cause us to reflect on, or to confront, an idea, and all present a stimulating challenge to our intellect. Marian's new learning center also provides a creative, imaginative atmosphere where students may go singly or in groups to learn new skills or master old ones. In the combined facilities of the library and learning center, students learn to identify themselves with the greater aspects of man and begin to find and define themselves, making the learning experience complete. The knowledge students gain is not only of the literature but of life itself.

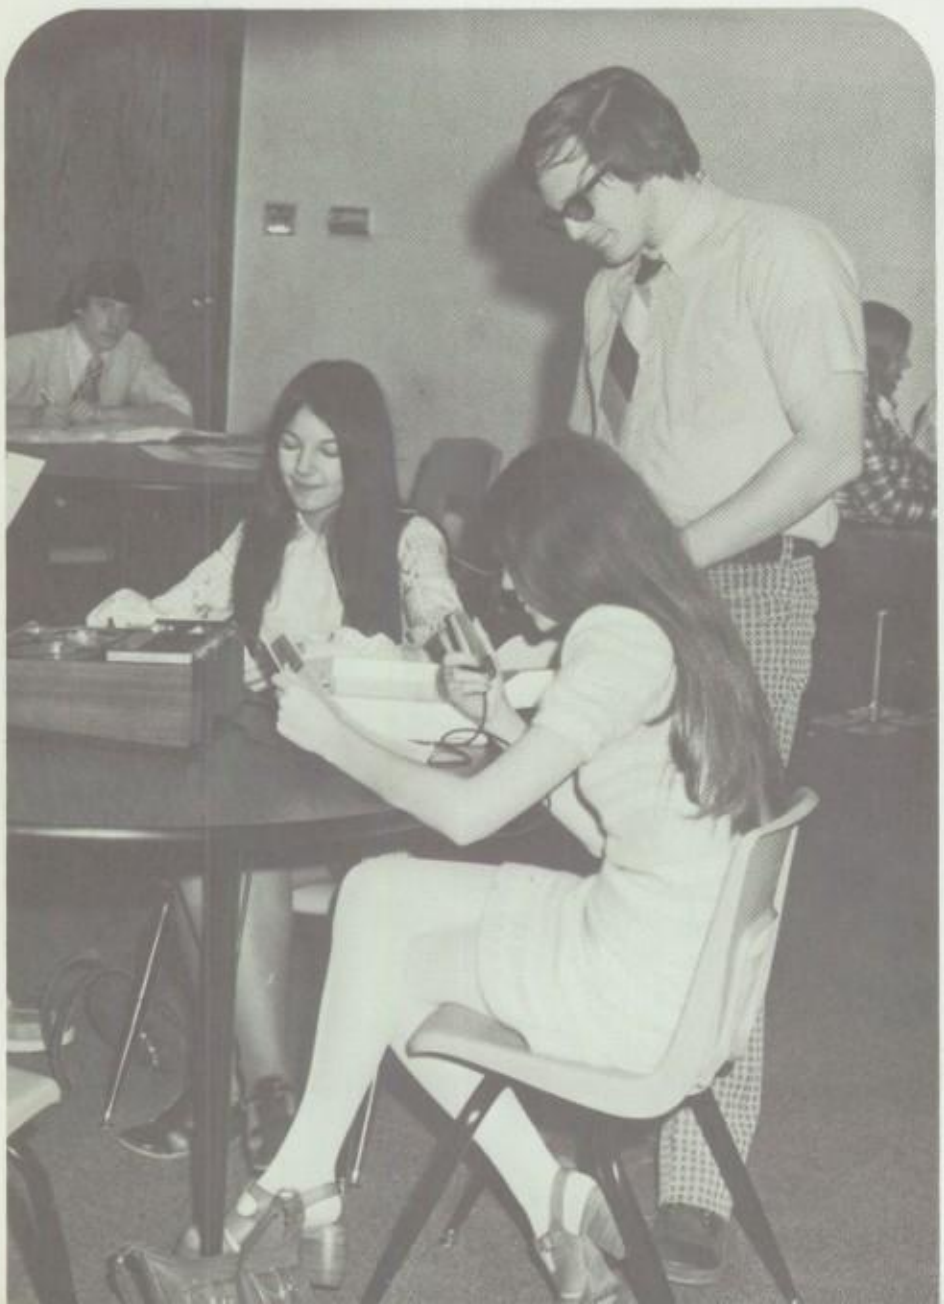
During their study hour (top) lynne flanagan and carol landgraf share a friendly smile.

It is pleasant to learn (bottom left) when the tape recorder is new and the learning center so inviting, as vince schrementi, trish jonassen, and pat o/connor would agree.

His selection of a book (bottom right) under sister agnes christine's supervision pleases tom o/grady.



Students in the learning center (top) make use of the equipment with the help of mrs. myrtle johnson.

Always willing to help (lower right) with the library work, library club vice-president mary kay damon, president lynda newman, and secretary-treasurer leanne ross find much to do.

"The key purpose of religion courses at marian is to lay a foundation for future exploration and involvement in religion, while covering all the major ideas necessary to have a complete and valuable introduction," according to sister mary linda, the head of the religion department. As the teacher of "future of man," a senior elective, she concentrates on the study of the nature of man, hoping that her students will become more aware of their importance in creating the future. The junior religion classes are becoming more conscious of christian morality, thanks to the fine teaching of mr. michael heubeck. Also new at marian this year are sister theodora and sister marie vianney, the freshman religion course teachers, who accent scripture study. Their reasons for it are, "to grow in the knowledge and awareness of God as He manifests Himself through salvation history and our daily lives." Most of the students are very interested and enjoy a lot of participation. Sister agnes ann on the sophomore level has accepted the responsibility of bringing the students up the ladder and keeping them interested in the course. The religion department in general plans to develop even more the liturgy services with the help of brother tim and the worship committee. The great dedication of all these teachers who do their best to keep their students interested and involved will bear fruit in their students as they mature into responsible christian adulthood.

In the communication arts department each teacher invokes in each student an appreciation of language as an artistic and creative program but not at the expense of fundamental academic skills. The student delves into those areas of grammar that will help him use language more effectively and to describe it more accurately. Students study literature as an art form that shows the character of an author and his period. Such a course enriches the student spiritually as well as intellectually.

Communication is in focus at marian, developed in the journalism, the speech, and the drama departments. The importance of communicating is realized through these varied media. Journalism students simultaneously learn fundamentals and put them into practice. Advised by sister mary annette, the class produces the school newspaper, the megaphone. Under the guidance of sister mary wilma, the students in the speech department master the dynamics of public speaking. Varied subject matter and interesting approaches combine to make this phase of study an important interactive force. Students of performing arts absorb many characteristics of social living as they learn the methods and intricacies of vivid acting. Directed by sister virginia dever, the performers explore an imaginative, creative means of communication. In preparing for speech contests they learn ways to inspire others through prose and poetry readings, monologues and duets, or by dramatizations prepared from a copyrighted play.

Language is the means with which men communicate with men. Knowing a foreign language enables students to learn more about the customs and lifestyles of other nations. The foreign language department utilizes the basic skills: speaking, writing, and reading; and develops them further by having students memorize, act out their own plays, and read extra literature. The job is made easier with the help of the language lab and the audio-visual aids available.

This year's science program gives the students an opportunity to broaden their knowledge while preparing for a world where a good science background is an asset, if not an absolute necessity. On the freshman level students have a choice between science survey, which gives the students a very broad introduction to the general sciences, and introductory physical science which involves much chemistry-oriented lab work. Sophomores and more advanced freshmen take biology which supplements the text with a great deal of helpful lab work. Chemistry, a junior and senior course, affords the study of the periodic table and methods for studying reactions, supplemented by laboratory work. Physics, a general course for seniors, teaches the laws of space, time, and motion as they may be applied to everyday life. Harvard physics is primarily for the college-bound student. It adheres to the general and specialized areas of physics and the principles they contain. In combination these studies will benefit each student greatly by giving him one aspect of a well-rounded education leading to more awareness of life.

"Business as usual," could aptly be posted on any door of marian's business department. In preparation for their futures, students choose from a wide range of semester and year-long courses. The semester courses consist of typing, bookkeeping, and economics. Personal typing is a most useful skill for personal or collegiate use; bookkeeping stresses a business application of mathematics and supplies a basic foundation for accounting and data processing; economics focuses on the concepts of stocks and bonds. Typing I and typing II are for future career purposes. Shorthand I and II prepare students for a secretarial vocation, as does the course in office practice.

In today's world (top) students must learn to keep their minds on the business at hand, and for lisa cantway and patti de/fiore that means their business law class.

Analytical geometry, introductory calculus, and trigonometry are three new semester math courses which offer a chance for seniors at marian to get a taste of college courses.

The analytical geometry/introductory calculus program is primarily for those students who are intending a career in the math/science field. The trigonometry/analytical geometry program enables students to develop their math skills and obtain a solid foundation in math. The computer programming/trigonometry program enables students to increase their math skills and have fun doing it. Freshmen and sophomores are again offered a chance to join a math club with a new moderator, sister judith anne, and a new name, eureka.

"Man today is the author of history tomorrow." One of the main objectives of the social studies program is to help students draw comparisons between past and present, enabling them to mold their own futures with knowledge gained now. The history of our country and our world plays an important role in the social studies curriculum. Complementing these traditional subjects, classes of sociology and government have grown in popularity with the students. Geography, a traditional class, gives students the chance to become familiar with our world in a physical sense. All in all, the very essential social studies program has many important attributes in its areas of study.

"One, two, three, inhale and exhale," yell the strong voices of our healthy students during an exercise period in gym class. The many sports and activities planned by the gym department for the students are fun, yet effective in keeping them physically fit. Miss flanagan and miss la/banca have started an intramural gymnastics program utilizing uneven parallel bars, trampoline, vault, rings, and the newly-acquired balance beams. Many girls have become quite skillful in the various difficult feats and will demonstrate their ability in the gym show put on in the spring.

Under coach berg, the athletic director, and the physical education instructors, coach dave mattio and coach bob bergstrom, the boys' program includes every sport enjoyed by boys everywhere. With football, basketball, baseball, wrestling, track, dodge ball, and other activities the boys develop into musclemen with true spartan power.

Ever think how dull a football half-time would be without the fine show put on by the band? The symphonic band, consisting of the more advanced players, not only puts on half-time shows, but also provides music during basketball games in the form of a pep band. Under the fine direction of mr. ed zentera they also manage to put on two concerts a year as well as to provide musical accompaniment for the plays put on by the drama/music departments. The outstanding work of these students is evident in the consistent first-place ratings in the i.h.s.a. band contest. Last year in the solo and ensemble contest the band came away with a majority of first-place performances.

As if they didn't have enough to do, the trombone, trumpet, and saxophone sections always find time to get together and rehearse as our stage band. Their various activities include playing in the talent show, visiting grade schools, and (a first this year) participating in the bloom high school jazz festival.

The cadet band, consisting mostly of freshmen and sophomores, prepares the less experienced players for their years with the symphonic band.

Singing is a beautiful way of expressing oneself; under the direction of sister annarose members of girls chorus and spartan choir have found singing both enjoyable and satisfying. The chorus performs in two concerts each year and outstanding members later qualify to join the spartan choir which participates in a large variety of choral works during the year. This advanced choir of mixed voices prepares concerts at christmas and in the spring. They participate in the i.h.s.a. music contests annually and assist in the production of the annual musical and other school functions. The madrigals are a group of fourteen boys and girls, with an accompanist, who present many programs at various civic and social events in the area. Rehearsing in their own free time, the madrigals learn readily and emanate joy and good will wherever they sing.

Two big choices that some of us will be confronting that will be very important to the future of our lives are college and career choice. College night attracts many juniors and seniors interested in establishing a future for themselves. The colleges selected by the students to visit marian always shows a good variety; the personnel sent to marian from colleges and universities all over the united states help the students arrive at a decision. Parents, too, attend and assist in the selection. Consequently, the entire program is informative and well received by students, parents, and faculty.

Career day, another aid in making hard decisions easier, gives the individuals the opportunity to hear about various careers and special fields in which they might find interest. Students find the program effective. It awakens their desires to look into career possibilities, especially since the people who come to discuss their life occupation make the sessions so interesting and enjoyable.

The government services (top) represented during career day interest paul ranieri.

The session (bottom right) on religious vocations, lectured by father faso, interests rich giovannetti and becky brown.

The faces (middle) of karen figel, garry brady, kevin mc/gugan, mary harkenrider, dave dewey, and mike miniat mirror the great success of college night.

Many a senior held a similar conference (bottom left) as this one with roberta grossi and a college representative because each knows that making the right selection is serious business.

The speaker for notre dame (bottom right) holds the attention of jerry mc/ilvain and jim matese.

Last Year's talent show, "anything 'n everything," exhibited the fresh bright talent and originality of the marian students through the great energy and effort of the performers and organizers. Acts such as the nostalgic teen angels from the fifties, singing "sha-boom," to the modern daybreak group, singing the popular "day by day," were offset by the comical humor and anecdotes of emcees kevin o/dea and nick pellegrino. Promising were the explosive originals — one by the stage band, others authored by jon brennan, joe zagone, and navi and the beast. Other acts were beach girls, tiffany, us, sunshine '74, t 'n t, the senior bunch and company, we three, kel and mar, the cinnamon cookie, and terry kennedy and don kazmier — all quality entertainment enjoyed immensely by an enthusiastic gym audience.

The black-jacketed greasers (opposite page, bottom) of the fifties—dan mc/laughlin, tony spalla, jay o/brien, pat taylor, and woody dame—delighted the listeners with "sha-boom."

Spartan soul (below) "wows" the people in the audience during the performance by mel smith, judi smith, donna burton, and carla perry.

"It's a small world" was the theme of the 1973 gym show expertly executed by the girls' athletic league under the supervision of miss mary flanagan and miss cecelia boyle. The long-awaited night, April 27, was the climax of months of hard work, many long practices, and endless preparations for one hundred fifty girls. The final days preceding the show were filled with tasks such as last-minute costume repairs, decoration of the gym, and dress rehearsals. The night finally arrived, bringing with it confusion, expectation, and much satisfaction.

The show consisted of fourteen acts, among which were pyramid building, tinickling, floor exercising, performing ring gymnastics, demonstrating the use of uneven parallel bars, and dancing to "zorba the greek." The entire cast highlighted the event with the finale, a marching number to the music of "anchors aweigh" and a choral rendition of "it's a small world."

Flying "through the air (opposite page, top) with the greatest of ease," mary weishaar exhibits her prowess on the rings.

Jumping rope (top, left) while tinickling is an art that kathie poole has accomplished.

Stacking up (above) to build a pyramid requires strength and patience of the sixth-period gym class.

The "zorba the greek" dance fascinates betsy towle, mary weishaar, and diane klyczek as well as the audience.

On the threshold of their own dreams, in anticipation of the future the students of marian once again participated in the traditional honors night. This single event, more than any other, serves as the link to the memories of life lived at marian, for it is here that the forces that make marian an experience in learning and living are found. Justifiable pride in past achievements and inspiration for future accomplishments reign together, hand in hand, for those receiving scholarships and special awards. The security felt because of the traditional, mingled with the anxieties of transition, and the solemnity of the induction of new national honor society members add to the dignity of the occasion. Senior members, together for the last time, bid the new members good luck and farewell in a symbolically beautiful ceremony of light.

A sense of duty and promises to keep create the atmosphere for the installation of new student council officers. Once it is all over, though the years may fly by, the essence of marian, forever young and wonderful, will remain preserved in the minds and hearts of those who once began to realize their dreams at marian catholic high school.

To the valedictorian (opposite page, bottom) of the class of '73, joanne baumgartner, the four years of strenuous work seem worthwhile.

The candle lighting ceremony (left) is an important part of the initiation for the national honor society.

Old and new officers (below) of student council — bob slobig, suellen o/brien, mike haggerty, lynda newman, marianne leslie, dennis coatar, sally calhoun, donna gamble, and peg calhoun — reflect upon the year behind them and the one to come.

For the class of 1973, this graduation marked the turning point in their lives — a step into the future with a look to the past. May 30, 1973, seemed to come all too soon for this class of graduates. As his friends and relatives assembled in the gym, each graduate could remember his days as a freshman almost as if it were yesterday. The program began at 7:30 with the marian symphonic band playing "music for a ceremony" as the class marched in. Parents, with mixed emotions of pride and sadness, watched as their son or daughter took steps into the adult world. The moving invocation preceded the presentation of diplomas by sister m. antonette, with sister mary christa calling the roll. The last diploma given, the last member of the class received as an alumnus, then the world leaders of the future left the gym, very much the same in appearance but converted during the short ceremony into adults whose minds projected miles into the future.

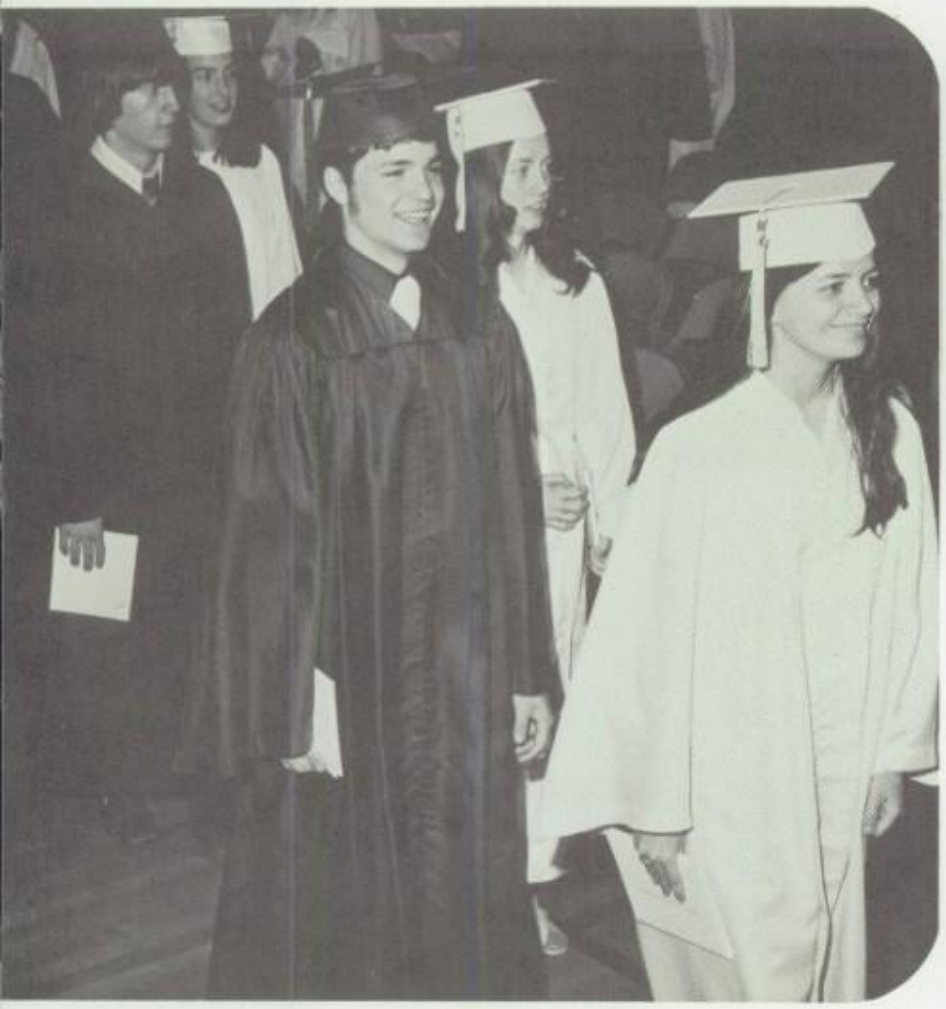
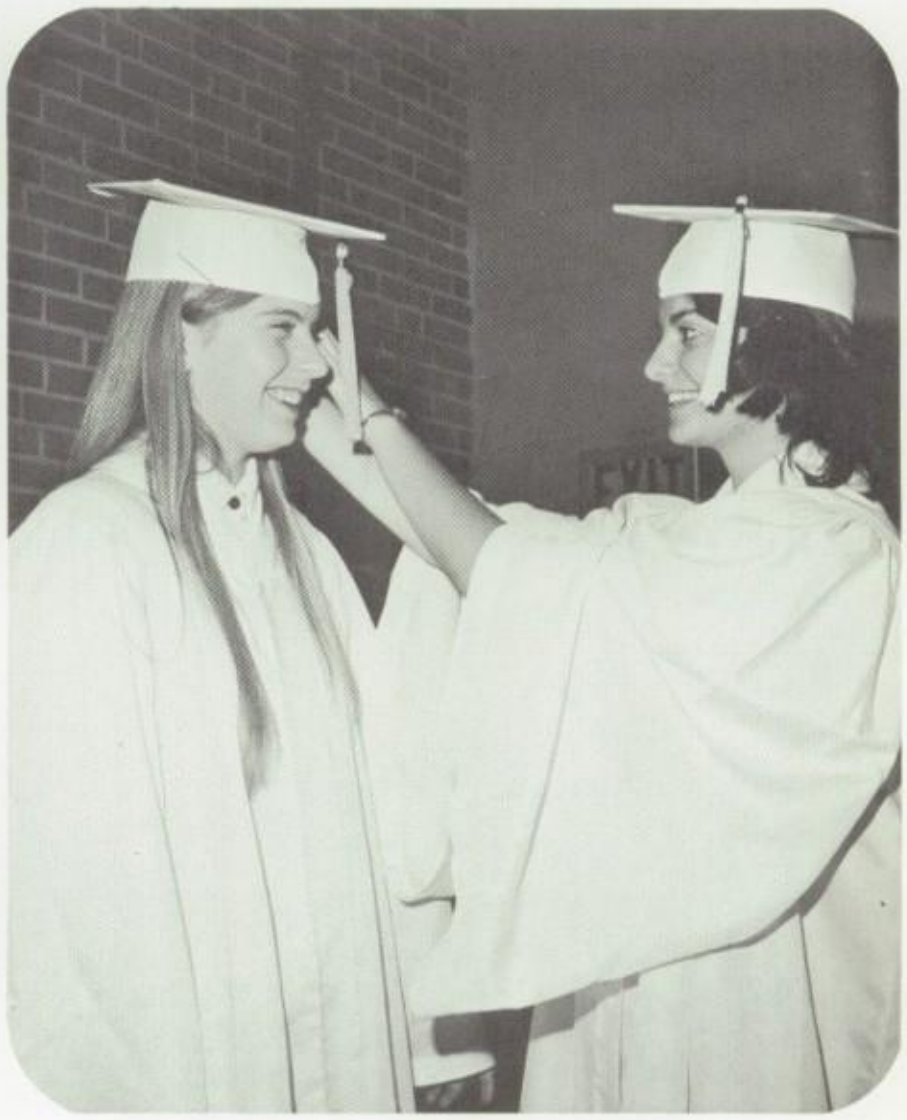
Contemplating the future (left) louise karas, sam scrementi, and tina schrementi seem lost in thought.

During the recessional (bottom left) julie pierson, pat mc/murray, kathy king, eric molander, and jodi prindaville greet the future (and their friends) with a smile.

Keeping the mortar board (below) at the correct angle is the problem that marianne maloni and barb szymanski solved together, precisely and smilingly.





The dreams of all instrument and voice students at marian are filled with the glories to come when they will be designated to receive the highest awards given for excellence, silver cross and gold medal. Trice west and anna randall received gold medals in voice; georgia blake and julie pierson in piano. Silver cross honors went to sue grothaus, emma fazzini, and cathy bendrick for their piano accomplishments; to helen flanagan for voice. The many musically-inclined band members returned from the i.h.s.a. solo and ensemble contest with twenty "firsts" and eleven "seconds," a very fine record.

By no means is music the only field in which marian students excel. The fact that marian has five national merit scholars and seventeen commended students confirms that.

Winners of silver cross honor (top) from the marian music department are sue grothaus, emma fazzini, cathy bendrick, and helen flanagan.

The highest honor given (right) at the end of a strenuous course, the gold medal, brought happiness and satisfaction to anna randall, georgia blake, trice west, and julie pierson.

Striving for excellence (top) dave gribben and chris zajakala merit a first place in the i.h.s.a. contest.

The five national merit scholars (right) who are at the top of the scholastic ladder are also very active in many other school activities. Always on hand are carol milord, joe shipley, sherry newquist, tim muggli, and dave price.

The week of October ninth brought the wonder and joy of disneyland to the halls of marian. While well-dressed freshman girls cowered in corners, donald duck roamed these halls unscathed by the ferocious student-council police force. These events are the usual part of any homecoming week, but other more traditional events were not a part of this year's celebration. An environmental protection act smothered the annual bonfire sponsored by the key club; the need for more man-hours to devote to float and car decoration brought the plans for the sock-hop to a standstill. On the day of the parade it was very evident that the senior class had used the extra time well to complete their prize-winning float, featuring donald duck, while the ecology club had put the finishing touches on "dumbo."

Argo was routed three times at the pep rally alone — the marian band, the cheerleaders, and our own spartan-man easily crushing their argonaut rivals. Not to be outdone, the varsity team set a precedent by winning the homecoming game 48-0.

Many couples celebrated the victory that evening, dancing to the music of bob merwin and his orchestra at disneyland '73. In spite of the fact that several well-established marian customs gave way to a more pressing need, the 1973 homecoming holds many fond memories for all of us.

Leadership, integrity, and responsibility are a few of the traits of this effective student council. An important purpose of s. c. is to get news and school reports across to the students through their representatives. The general assembly meets every wednesday; the executive board every monday. Students have an opportunity to voice their ideas in a classroom situation so that their representative can participate in their behalf and then, in turn, relay the decision to those who elected him. Besides student government, student council carries on many successful activities; among its responsibilities are homecoming festivities, march of dimes collection, freshman orientation day, open house for incoming freshmen, "respond now," and a decoration contest among the different classes that changes marian into a veritable santa's workshop.

hola from the fascinating world of linguistics. Through the language clubs students can explore the cultures and cuisines of the french and spanish-speaking peoples of today. As demonstrated by latin club members (right) even when not in rome, you can "do as the romans did." The marian varsity baseball team turned in one of the finest seasons in school history with an overall record of 14-5 and a conference record of 10-4. This gave coach dave mattio's squad a second-place finish in a tough illini-8 league. Special recognition goes to those who were chosen for the all-conference team: bill pickert, an outstanding pitcher with e.r.a. of 1.87, joe berg and john cifelli who engineered the defensive plays that determined the outcome of many games, and sam scrementi whose bat left other teams in a daze. There were some fine underclassmen in training also and coach dave mattio is looking forward to spring of '74 because of the good core that he has to build around.

Coach bob stirzen's sophomores, thanks to his untiring efforts, closed the season with 12-4-1 record, a very impressive one, considering the competition. Their future looks bright and the student body has every reason to be proud of them now and hopeful of the next season.

The marian golfers proved that they have what it takes to be a winning squad — the blending of individual expertise with overall teamwork. The spartans compiled a 12-6-1 record and came in first place in the illini-8 tournament. Dan wojcik was able to tie the nine-hole record and set a new eighteen-hole record in one clean sweep at minnie monesse. There is also hope for the future in ed kasper and bill calzavara. Ed was medalist at the i-8 tournament with a blazing 75. Bill calzavara had the second lowest nine-hole average of the entire team. With a few veterans and other fine linksmen another fine season is assured. Coach don berg is happy with the results of his men; he also has his eyes on the good work that coach michael clark is doing with the sophomores, destined in the very near future to be varsity golfers. Having taken first place in the i-8 tournament and in the i-8 conference, the sophomores are something to be reckoned with.

Thanks to the efforts of coach bob voss and to the dedication and positive attitude of the team, the '73 cindermen became true contenders. John chisholm, an exceptional distance runner, and his brothers, pat and tim, all contributed a good deal to the cause. Contending in the shotput were the powerful vince caffarini and fred nolta, while jim buishas, bob scott, bruce mc/gugan, and alfio palanca led the 880-yard relay team. In 1974 coach voss is looking forward to a successful season with what he terms an "excellent, young track team."

Also involved in the rebuilding of the marian track team was coach jim gacek on the fresh-soph level. His team included hurdler kevin kahle and distance runner chuck billerbeck. Tim schroeder led the sprinters and ralph cyrkiel competed in the shotput. Other participants were dave pauley, high and long jump, and jerry mc/ilvain, in the half-mile. These individuals will greatly improve the chances of future success for the marian track team in the 1974 season.

The 1973 varsity football team posted the "winningest" record in the history of marian football. Many hours of hard work and determination filled the past season. The spirit, enthusiasm, and patience of the players, cheerleaders, and fans encouraged the team that owes special thanks to coaches bob voss and michael clark and dave mattio. Memories of and pride in this team will live in the minds and hearts of the entire senior class.

Sophomore and junior members of the team have shown that they have the potential to live up to the example set by this year's seniors. The impact of the '73 spartans has made its mark on the students, teachers, and the illini-eight.

Spartan spirit (right) is everywhere, but it is particularly on the sidelines where the rest of the team waits.

With his usual diligence (top, right) and faithful service, manager augie bamonti prepares some more tape.

The defense (below) has this play well covered.

With the game in control, coach voss (bottom right) watches his team finish it up.

The spirit of '76 was truly present in the sophomore football team, but—plagued by injuries and hurt by mistakes — the soph team posted a 3-5-2 record. Coach john hackett must certainly have two favorite colors. Quarterback john brown dropped back to throw eight touchdown passes and to accumulate over nine hundred yards in the air. In the argo game alone, gary blue had five receptions. But it was in the same argo game that leading rusher, brian d/apice, suffered a broken leg. The leading receivers were mike novelli and terry kenney with michael novelli doubling as backup quarterback. Heading up the linemen was mike borak with brent wiscons and harold kravcik showing much improvement. As long as we have such a group, the spirit of '76 will remain.

In spite of (opposite page, bottom right) assistance from gary blue and the skill of brian d/apice, a rival stops the play with a fierce tackle.

Every good team must be built on good foundations; the freshman team provides this foundation for future spartan teams. Freshman football is a boy's first introduction to the spartans. Here he must learn to become part of a team composed of a totally new group of boys. This is a time for learning; so our freshman team should be proud of their 2-5-2 record. They have shown that they will well represent marian catholic as next year's fighting spartans competing in the i-8 conference with other sophomore teams.

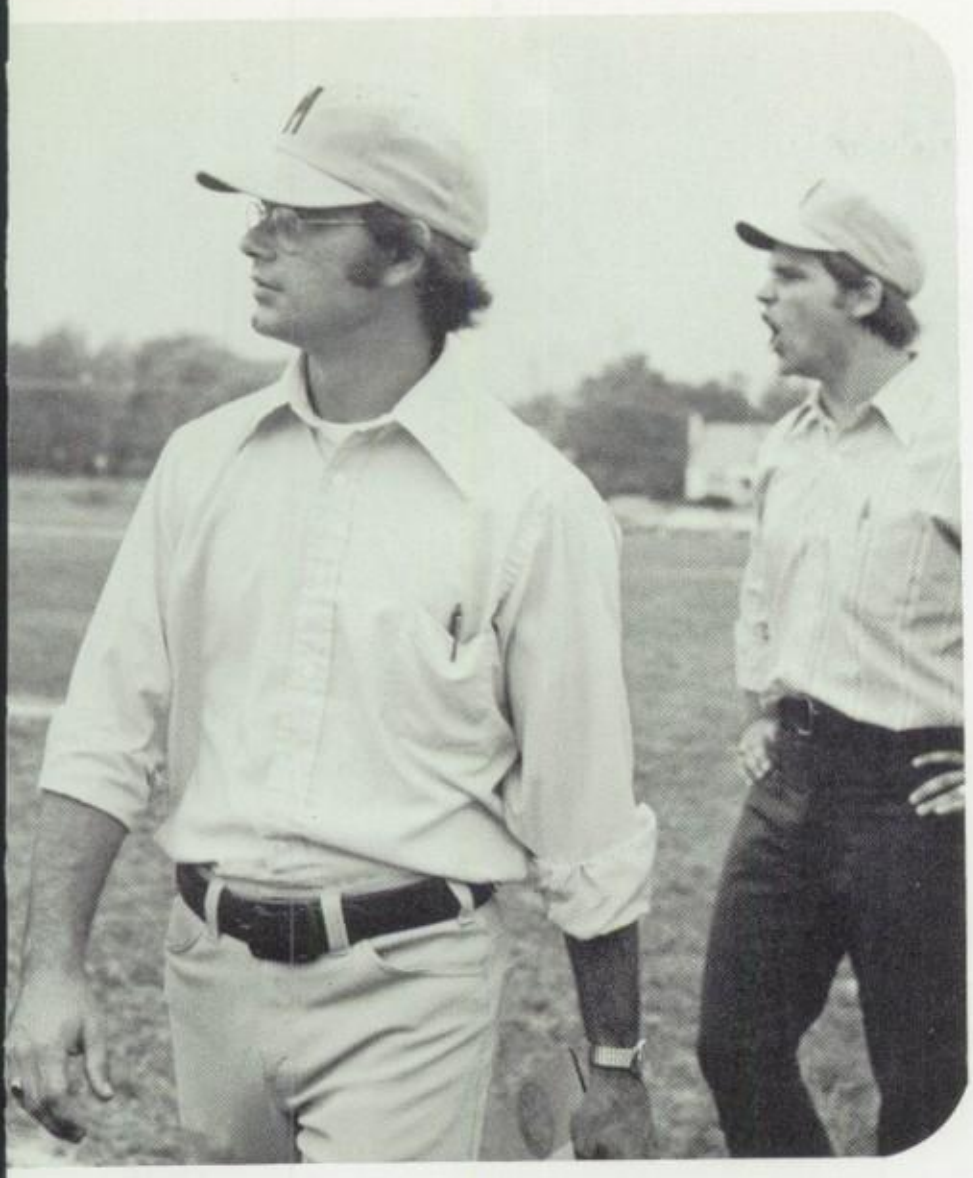
Ably assisted (opposite page, middle left) by mike schilf, al medina, and chuck kachurik, jack weishaar carries the ball for a gain of two yards.



A beautiful catch (bottom left) and a clear field are the results of practice and teamwork. For shawn janus it is an opportunity to carry the ball for a sizeable gain.

Although the record does not reflect it, the marian varsity basketball team put together an exciting and interesting season. Senior tony lee kept games within reach by popping in three or four baskets in a row; senior woody dame was the rebounding strength of the team; junior steve vallino, after recovering from a knee injury, fought his way back into a stellar performance; senior jim (zelmo) grupp, the team-mover, set up plays, jumped for rebounds, and inspired his teammates. A surprise for the spartans was 6'7"-sophomore mike kabat, marian's tallest player ever. Rounding out the squad are seniors glenn gaffney, paul heniff, and tim motz (the player who really came alive in that first state regional game, marian vs. crete-monee) and juniors don berg, jim calhoun, kevin mc/gugan, and ken wegrzyn.

As woody dame (right) strains anxiously, jim grupp weaves his way through the opposition for the score.

All the games in which the '76'ers participated proved to be well-fought battles with disappointment but no shame in defeat and much pride in victory. Several talented members emerged during the season from the sophomore ranks — gary blue, terry o/brien, mark weishaar, brent wiscons, joe wojcik, and dave dunne; these offer much promise for the years to come.

When measuring success, the amount of improvement and preparation gained for the future is certainly an important factor. Such being the case, the varsity wrestling squad, led by coach bob bergstrom, has had a productive season. This year's squad is unusually young, having only three starting seniors. For the junior members of the team, this season played a role of a testing ground for next season when their youth will have the advantage of experience. Standouts for this year included senior pat strzelec at 112 pounds, a veteran matman with an impressive record of 23 wins, ten of which were pins. Pat placed second in the conference, third in the rich east tournament, and fourth in the districts. At 119 pounds, junior tom mc/clintock has scorched his opponents for 17 wins, placing fourth in the conference, third in the rich east tournament, and third in the district tournament. Also deserving of mention are junior jeff johnson who placed fourth in the conference at 155 pounds and sophomore jeff la/porte at 126 pounds who holds the record of 24 seconds for the fastest pin in district tournament history. These selected examples show that the goal of coach bob bergstrom to raise the level of wrestling at marian has, at least for this year, been attained.

Marian sophomore wrestlers defeated saint francis de/sales, crete-monee, and conference power romeoville, but their initial drive did not last and their season record of 3-11-1 omits the story of valiant effort and individual success. With four sophs wrestling on varsity, coach bob stirzen reached into freshman level to complete the starting line-up. Besides the hearty effort made by all the grapplers in many close meets, george medina, who earned the fastest pin on all levels (12 seconds) and bob corradetti, team captain and most improved wrestler, were outstanding. Considering the four sophs already on varsity level and the improvements made by the sophomore squad, next year's varsity promises to perform very well.

Wrestling is a sport that combines individual effort and team competition. It is a personal test of strength, endurance, and courage for each opponent. The coach, john hackett, and each and every member of his team can justly be proud of the freshman record of good sportsmanship. The popularity of wrestling is growing steadily at marian because, beginning with this lowest level, all are finally realizing the respect that such a tough, competitive sport deserves.

Dear Coach Bo Good Luck to you and the Dallas Cowboys
We know you will have a great year and we are so proud of you.
Have a great summer
& get well soon
Love
Mary Beth

John M,

You may be a burnt-out, anvil head, streaker, but you ok just-th same. Remember-th locker room during-th play (GREEENNN)? Maintain your high and keep your cleaches on.

Love and Kisses,

Mark Stella Anvil Frizz A Scott

OXOXX

ANVILS FOREVER

JOHN....

M/LOVE!

Ya Know— closets aren't always the best place.
Next year, let's try the garbage basket under the water fountain in 3rd hall!

What can I say about English & algebra? (cheap thrills?) Since you're a tawdo I hope your summer is, well, what can I say!? Have a rewarding summer, (if ya know what I mean!?)

Waa-Waa

from your lover,

Kathy (Sis
a real Dog)

R.C., BURN-O,

Meeks!

John,
for most of us here at Magian, our streaks ended before they even started, but not for me

Love
Angie

John,
I guess when you have St. Blaise for A10. and Mrs. Brossman for English you end up doing something out of frustration. When are you going to do it?

Mom.

John,
I can't help it but everytime "the Streaker" comes on the radio I can't stop thinking about you. I had fun playing with your head this year.
I love you. Janet

Dear John,
has been quite an experience for me. Between Jamaica this year, Bennie, streakers and a host of egg mcmuffins, our friendship a lot. I think has deepened who I can turn to in times of trouble. Thanks for everything. I'm indebted to you forever. If you ever need someone to talk to anytime you know where I am. Have a great summer.

Love always,
Patty

Dear John,
You're a really great person and even though your cause was slightly illegal
I'm proud of you.
Love,
Debi

Now if you want a real fox call me. "DAVID."

John,
You're the most adventurous swanky, sure sure met. Don't change, I might need a chap like you sometime Love xxx
